APOLOGIES BY WILCOX

Mon War Amuses Emma Square Crowd.

Had not Robert Wilcox made lengthy apologies Saturday night at the Emma Square mass meeting of Home Rulers for the appearance of Ng Mon War's name upon the Home Rule legislative ticket the Chinese would probably have been hissed, or groaned off the stand when he came forward to make his speech, or at least what he perhaps calls a speech, for few could understand his effort.

Wilcox spent half an hour in making apologies, half the time in Hawaiian and half the time in English. He called attention to the alleged cousinship which Mon War bore to the great Chinese statesman Wu Ting Fang, China's recent representative at Washington. In support of his contention that at least a part of the "people" wanted Mon War upon the ticket he unfolded a purported petition from what he termed were nearly all the leading Chinese merchants of the city, in which they had besought Wilcox to have Mon War run for legislative honors on the Home Rule ticket.

Mon War was met with groans and the crowd talked pigeon-English to him. Few understood what the little celestial was saying and even Wilcox, who started to interpret his remarks, had to give it up as a bad job and Charles Nottley took his place. For every half dozen words Mon War said Nottley interpreted fifty.

At length Mon War subsided and gave another Home Ruler a chance to talk. There were some in the crowd who insisted that the big dinners which Mon War has been spreading before the leaders of the Home Rulers during the past week have kahuanaed them into the belief that Mon War is as good as the rest of the men on the ticket.

Charles Nottley was introduced as the "cowboy of Hawaii." He made a characteristic attack upon everything not attached to Home Ruleism. Kentwell referred at considerable length to the territorial treasury and late treasurer. He said that if the natives wanted to give the Queen any monetary compensation before the Commission arrived, but now they were loud in favor of doing so. He asked the crowd to give three cheers for the Senatorial Commission, as they would probably get the Queen $5,000,000 for doing so.

He then took up his proposition to turn the control of the Leper Settlement over the Federal Government. By giving it to the Federal authorities the Territory would be spared the expense. The territory needed the cash which it could save in this manner.
